ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Joseph R. Currier, Ph.D., is a management consultant and licensed psychologist, who has devoted his career to helping people change the self-defeating attitudes and break through barriers of resistance that prevent them from leading healthier, happier, and more productive lives.

In his over forty-five years of professional dedication, Dr. Currier has been involved in leadership development, executive coaching, succession planning, change-transition management, crisis intervention and team building with a wide variety of organizations such as The Allegis Group, Baltimore Ravens NFL Franchise, Mobil Oil, KPMG, Wachovia Bank and the United States Forest Service. He frequently serves as a personal coach and consultant to senior executives.

For six years, Dr. Currier was the Chief Learning Officer for The Allegis Group, helping to establish a corporate university and directing its Executive Institute. Joe has been a senior psychological associate with four of the premier outplacement companies: Jannotta Bray, Right Associates, Lee Hecht Harrison and Drake Beam Morin. He is a faculty member of the Bernard H. Ehrlich Executive Management Institute (EMI) at the University of Maryland, and a former professor and graduate department chairperson at Hofstra University.

Dr. Currier is the author of the book-audio series, “Leadership Is Always Simple But Never Easy.” His innovative work to foster personal and professional growth include workshops like: “The Art of Leadership” and “Survive OR Prosper.” Joe also wrote and narrated two other audio series: “How to Manage Stress” and “Less Stress,” as well as, authored, “Managers Must Lead and Leaders Must Manage”, “10 Contracts to Build and Manage Optimal Performance Teams”, and “If You’re So Damn Smart, Why Aren’t You Healthier and More Effective?”
